

Department of Health Education and Behavior
Seminar Series

October 12, 2009
Florida Gym Room#235
2:00pm-3:30pm

“You Call that Responsible? The Conceptualization and Practice of Responsible Drinking”

Adam E. Barry, PhD

Assistant Professor, Department of Health and Kinesiology, Purdue University

B.S. School Health, Florida State University,
Tallahassee

M.S. Health Education, Florida State University,
Tallahassee

Ph.D. Health Education, Texas A&M University

Dr. Barry's primary research interest included examining the alcohol-related behaviors, beliefs, perceptions and attitudes of college students. Furthermore, he has an interest in examining how technology can be utilized to enhance the delivery of health education content in a classroom setting.