Checklist:

All items must be included and provided IN THIS ORDER:

- A completed HHP Graduate School Funding Award Nomination Form.
- Doctoral program application, including transcripts.
- A current CV with publications (provide sample), presentations and experiences.
- A personal statement from the candidate (3-page maximum). The personal statement should include previous research and practitioner experiences, what opportunities this award would provide for them, how their work will be aligned with the research agenda of their advisor/mentor, and long term career goals/plans. Personal statement should be specific to this award (i.e., not letter for doctoral program admission).
- A minimum of two (2) recommendation letters by outside references noting research and practitioner experiences.
- A nomination letter from the candidate’s potential UF advisor/mentor. The nomination letter should provide documentation of the candidate’s potential for contribution to the program, to the overall field of study, and to UF by summarizing previous research, publications and scholarly activity.
- Prospective advisor’s individualized training plan. The training plan should describe the knowledge, skills, and techniques that the candidate will learn during the award period, and should discuss the relationship of research training to the applicant’s career goals. While aspects of the training plan will be similar across students (e.g., plan for training in research ethics), the plan should be tailored to the individual student’s background and goals.
- Prospective advisor’s current CV (abbreviated, not to exceed 10 pages, including a list of all doctoral trainees during last five years).

Nomination Deadline:

The nominations must be received by the Associate Dean for Academic and Student Affairs no later than 5:00 pm on Wednesday, February 8, 2017.

Do NOT staple the nomination packet. The nomination packet should be presented in the sequence noted above.
