

The Graduate School Funding Awards (GSFA) are competitive and intended to be used to attract outstanding students to pursue a Ph.D. degree in one of the academic programs in the college. This award provides four (4) years of support if the awardee remains in good academic standing and makes good progress in their program. All award recipients will follow the guidelines for accountability as outlined in the CHHP Graduate Assistant Appointment and State Funding Guidelines. All award recipients will have either a teaching and/or research assistantship during the award period.

Coverage

The award is for four years and provides tuition costs for fall, spring, and summer. Each recipient must be registered for a minimum of 9 credit hours in the fall and spring, and 6 credit hours in the summer. The recipient will also receive individual health care insurance through the university. The recipient is responsible for all student fees. <http://www.fa.ufl.edu/bursar/current-students/tuition-and-fees-2016-17/>

During the four year award, each recipient may have a teaching assignment, and will be appointed for no less than 6 semesters, including summer, as a research assistant, under the supervision of the faculty mentor/advisor.

Students who are currently enrolled or those who have been enrolled in a doctoral program at UF in the past are not eligible for consideration.

- Baccalaureate degree;
- Demonstration of academic excellence including competitive scores on the Graduate Record Exam, and outstanding undergraduate/graduate GPA.
- Admitted into the doctoral program; and
- Faculty advisor/mentor identified, approved, and willing to serve in this capacity.

Using a holistic review process, the candidates' packets will be evaluated in the following areas:

- Academic record (GPA, GRE, Institutional/Department ranking);
- Applicant's record of and potential for scholarly productivity (abstracts, presentations, published manuscripts, etc.);
- Applicant's professional experience;
- Prospective advisor's training plan;
- Training/mentoring environment provided by the prospective advisor and his/her record of recent scholarly productivity; and
- Ability of the prospective advisor to support student's training.

Nomination & Review Process

The following is the process by which award recipients will be selected (see Timeline):

- Each year the college is notified regarding new funds for these awards.
- Once the college has been notified, the College administration will determine award amount and announce to graduate coordinators and graduate faculty.
- Departmental faculty will nominate prospective graduate student(s) for the award; self-nominations are not permitted.

- The nomination packet will include IN THIS ORDER:
 - Completed HHP Graduate School Funding Award Nomination Form
 - Doctoral program application.
 - The applicant's current CV with publications (provide sample).
 - A personal statement from the applicant (3-page maximum). The personal statement should include previous research and practitioner experiences, what opportunities this award would provide for them, how their work will be aligned with the research agenda of the prospective advisor, and long-term career goals. This statement should be different from the letter of application to the doctoral program and specifically address the points mentioned here.
 - A minimum of two recommendation letters by outside references noting research and practitioner experiences (recommendation letters from doctoral program application can be used).
 - A nomination letter from the candidate's prospective UF advisor/mentor. The nomination letter should provide documentation of the candidate's potential for contribution to the program, to the overall field of study, and to UF by summarizing the applicant's previous research, publications and scholarly activity.
 - An individualized training plan written by the prospective advisor detailing the proposed research training of the applicant (2-page maximum). The plan should include each of the following items: (1) A brief description of the current research in which the applicant will be involved; (2) the advisor's plan to develop the applicant's research capabilities; and (3) the relationship of the training plan to the applicant's career goals. While aspects of the training plan will be similar across students (e.g., plan for training in research ethics), the plan should be tailored to the individual student's background and goals.
 - The prospective advisor's current biosketch / CV (no more than 10 pages) including a list of all doctoral trainees during the last 5 years. For graduated doctoral students supervised by the prospective advisor, provide the name of present employer and position title.
- Evaluation and Ranking of Candidates
 - Members of the college Graduate Faculty Committee will evaluate the relative strength of each application according to the holistic criteria listed on page one.
 - The chair of the college Graduate Faculty Committee will call a meeting for the purpose of discussing each application. During the meeting, members will present and discuss their rankings of the applications before the full committee. A general discussion of the nominees will then follow.
 - After the general discussion, each committee member will revisit their own rankings and then submit their final ranking, with 1 being the strongest candidate. The results of the ranking analysis will be distributed to each committee member. The committee will use the findings from ranking analysis to recommend award recipients to the dean.
 - Any member(s) of the Graduate Faculty Committee who have a prospective advisee in the competition will be excused from the evaluation process and will be replaced by another faculty member from the same department, appointed by the Dean.
 - If there are three or more awards available, the highest ranked candidate from each department will receive an award, provided that each candidate is deemed qualified by the Dean. Additional awards should be distributed in rank order. If only two awards are available, awards should be given to the highest ranked candidate from two departments, provided that each candidate is deemed qualified by the Dean.

Award Notification Process:

The following is the process by which award recipients will be notified

- The Associate Dean for Academic and Student Affairs will notify the Dean, Graduate Coordinator(s) and Department Chair(s) of the candidates chosen to receive awards. If a student declines the award, the next student on the ranked list will be offered the award. If there is no student on the ranked list, the process will be repeated but in a more expedited manner.
- The Associate Dean for Academic and Student Affairs will notify award recipients via e-mail with copy to Graduate Coordinator, department chairperson, and faculty advisor. The student will be asked to complete the award acceptance form.
