The FAQ's cover most of this. http://www.ufl.edu/health-updates/frequently-asked-questions/
If it is a student and suspected exposure- they should contact Student Health Care Center and Dean of Students (through umatter)
If it is a faculty and suspected exposure- they should contact their health provider and self-quarantine.

If it is a confirmed then everyone in the health space that should know already does.

The question was on the health part, i.e. 1) What if a student in a class or lab gets sick with COVID-19? What information can be shared and with whom? 2) What if a faculty member gets COVID-19 and is out sick? What information can be shared and with whom?
