

Department of Tourism, Recreation and Sport Management
Lecturer in Sport Management

Position:

Lecturer in Sport Management (non-tenure track position). The University of Florida (UF) invites applications and nominations for a lecturer-line faculty position in the sport management program. The college has a well-structured promotion system for individuals in the non-tenure teaching positions to seek career advancement. As a member of the Association of American Universities and the flagship institution in Florida, UF (<http://www.ufl.edu>) is a Land-Grant and Sea-Grant institution, encompassing virtually all academic and professional disciplines, with an enrollment of approximately 50,000 students. The Department of Tourism, Recreation and Sport Management (www.hhp.ufl.edu/trsm) currently enrolls approximately 900 students (750 undergraduates, 150 graduates) with 19 full-time faculty members. With its high expectations for academic excellence, the university aims to provide the best opportunities for teaching and learning.

Responsibilities:

Teach a minimum of three graduate and undergraduate sport management courses per semester in two or more of the following content areas: sport finance, legal aspects of sport, sport sociology, sport facility management, management and leadership of sport organizations, and sport marketing. Serve as one of the primary academic advisors to Master of Science non-thesis students. Establish sport management internship/practicum sites, and supervise student field experiences. Contribute to program development and outreach through cultivating professional relations between the sport management program and sport organizations. Provide student career advising and contribute to service activities at program, department, and college levels.

Qualifications:

Doctorate in sport management or related field of study. ABD candidates will be considered; however, an earned doctorate is required at the time of employment. An applicant should be passionate and enthusiastic toward professional teaching and student learning, and demonstrate strong evidence of and commitment to teaching excellence. A candidate should possess good communication and social skills to interact with various constituencies. Preference will be given to those with sport industry experience and academic and career advising experience. The College of Health and Human Performance is committed to building a culturally diverse faculty and staff, a key factor in maintaining excellence in teaching and research in our global society. Thus, among other qualifications, we will favorably consider an applicant's record of including in research, teaching and service, diverse backgrounds, experiences, races, ethnicities, genders, and perspectives.

Salary: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Effective Date of Employment: August 16, 2012. This is a 9-month fulltime appointment.

Application Deadline: All application materials must be submitted by November 18, 2011.

Application Process:

To be considered, applications must be submitted on-line at <https://jobs.ufl.edu/> (position #00006407; requisition # 0809433) and must include a letter of application with a statement of career goals, teaching interests, experience, teaching achievements, advising experience and other professional accomplishments; curriculum vitae; names, mailing addresses, e-mail addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three references. Other evidence of teaching effectiveness such as course syllabi, teaching evaluations, and/or evidence of teaching awards should be sent directly to the search committee chair by email before the application deadline. Inquiries and nominations should be directed to the Chair of the Search Committee:
